RAIL BOARD MEMBERS AND UNION LEADERS CONTINUE PARLEY IN EFFORT TO AVERT STRIKE

POLITICS MAY KEEP PREMIER IN ENGLAND

LONDON, October 27.—Prime Minister Lloyd George probably will have to abandon his visit to Washington, or at least postpone it until the closing sessions of the conference there, because of the very critical situation with Sinn Fein Ireland, it was asserted by several well informed newspapermen here today. The premier had made no public statement to this effect, but his political and personal friends were quoted as communicating the report to inquirers as if publicity was desired.

Everywhere it was admitted today that the Irish negotiations had made little progress, and although hope had not been relinquished, there was a tendency to regard the outlook as being less favorable than it was a day or two ago. Political writers remarked that if the negotiations broke down, the premier's trip would be obviously impossible, while if a break in the conference was avoided, it was difficult to see how a settlement could be reached for a considerable time. The accumulation of other pressing business was also urged in some quarters as contributing to the improbability that the prime minister would be able to carry out his desire to go to the Washington conference.

LONDON, October 27.—Prime Minister Lloyd George today proposed to the house of commons that it set aside next Monday for a discussion on the motion of unionist members of parliament condemning the present negotiations with representatives of Sinn Fein Ireland. He said he hoped there would be a vote on the question.

Just before he made the proposal, Mr. Lloyd George was asked whether the Irish conference was still proceeding to which he replied in the affirmative.

Mr. Lloyd George introduced his proposal with this statement:

"As it is evident that there is a section of the members of the house who have serious misgivings regarding the conference which now is proceeding between representatives of His Majesty's government and representatives of Sinn Fein members from Ireland, I think it is essential that we should know where we stand as a government before we go very much further."

Iron Puddlers' And Finishers' Wages Cut

YOUNGSTOWN, O., October 27.—Iron puddlers and finishers working under the national agreement between the Western Iron Puddling Association and the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, are given a further reduction in the current bi-monthly settlement, it was announced here today. The price of puddling is now $8.43 a ton and finishing is 32 1/2 per cent above base. The wage is based on the selling price of iron, which was found to have fallen from 125 cents to 170 cents a pound. The new scale is a new low level in the industry since pre-war days. Puddling of the last settlement was fixed at 20 1/2 a ton.

Japan Stands Ready To Cut Navy

ABOARD STEAMSHIP KASHIMA MARU, October 26.—(By radio to the Associated Press)—Japan stands ready to cut down her navy if the powers reach an understanding at the forthcoming conference at Washington on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions, according to Vice Admiral Kato, member of the Japanese delegation to Washington, which is traveling to America aboard this ship.

THE LITTLE ENTENTE SENDS NOTE TO HUNGARY

LONDON, October 27.—(By the Associated Press)—The little entente, composed of Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Jugoslavia, has dispatched a note to Hungary demanding the surrender of former Emperor Charles, the demobilization of the Hungarian army and reparations sufficient to defray the expenses of the little entente's mobilization, according to a Vienna dispatch to the Central News Agency today. Unless Hungary replies satisfactorily within two days, the little entente troops will enter Hungary, the dispatch said.

PARIS, October 27.—(By the Associated Press)—The allied council of ambassadors today decided that former Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary and ex-Emperor Zita should be placed immediately upon a British battle cruiser in the Danube, pending an order meeting of the council next Saturday, when a final decision regarding their disposition is to be made.

The ambassadors were unable to reach a final decision today because they were faced with the disinclination of various countries to furnish asylum for the ex-monarchs. It was said their final disposition was proving to be an awkward problem.

PARIS, October 27.—Mobilization preparations are proceeding everywhere in Czechoslovakia, both in the Czech and Slovak districts. Premier Benes told the chamber of deputies in connection with the little entente's ultimatum to Hungary, according to a dispatch from Prague today to the Havas agency. The dispatch quoted the Czechoslovakian premier as saying that the government would not refrain from the most energetic measures in carrying out the ultimatum, although all action would be kept within the terms of the peace treaties and within the agreement between the little entente and the allied powers.

Hays To Conduct Probe In Big Mail Robbery

NEW YORK, October 27.—The loot obtained by automobile bandits in the hold-up of a mail truck here last Monday night was announced by Postmaster General Hays today as $1,454,129.88, of which $27,164.82 was in cash. Most of the remainder was in non-negotiable bonds.

NEW YORK, October 27.—Postmaster General Hays arrived here today to take personal charge of the investigation of last Monday's registered mail robbery by automobile bandits, who held up a mail truck and escaped with five pouches filled with bonds, securities and currency.

Hays said that the postmaster general was coming to take a hand in the case led to reports that the losses were even higher than the $1,000,000 figure estimated by post office authorities. The post office officials still withheld definite figures, but statements issued by banks and brokerage houses showed a total known loss of $328,925.

This was exclusive of a large shipment of currency reported to have been included in one of the pouches "and which was said to have been the main object of the robbers. Most of the bonds and other securities, it was said, were listed in the owners' names and thieves could scarcely hope to realize on them. It was feared these securities might be destroyed."

LONDON—Free shares for two weeks was a prize offered at the hospital fête at Delves. It was won by a woman.

Foch's Ship Waits On Pershing's

NEW YORK, October 27.—The steamship Paris, which is on the way to New York from France, with Marshal Foch, has slowed down in order that the George Washington, with General Pershing as a passenger, may arrive here tomorrow first and the general may welcome the marshal to the country.

A wireless message brought this news from Paris today and dissipated all ideas of a race between the vessels. Greetings from Marshal Foch to the American people have been sent by radio. The message follows:

"I am overjoyed over my visit to America, that glorious country which came so nobly to our help. I am particularly happy to know I shall meet again the great officers and soldiers who fought so courageously and in such great numbers for our victory."

"I am anxious to see those men whom I have known in the conflict of war, in victorious peace and in the bosoms of their families. To do this I am going to see the entire country from the Gulf of Mexico to the Great Lakes."

"From the bottom of my heart, I greet the American people."

"FOCH."

DIES OF HEART WOUNDS
CLEVELAND, Oct. 27.—After living thirty-six hours with four stitches in his heart, Julius Fiedler, 43, died in a hospital late last night after flashing himself with a knife. Police say he became discouraged because he had no work and was unable to provide for his wife and four children.

AIR MAIL POSTOFFICE
BERLIN—Due to the increasing use of the German air mails the postal authorities have found it necessary to establish a chief aerial post office here. There are 13 regular air routes leaving Berlin.

BRIAND SCORES BIG POLITICAL VICTORY

PARIS, October 27.—Premier Briand was today making final preparations to leave on Saturday for America, where he will attend the conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions. He will appear in Washington as the spokesman of the French people and parliament, armed by a mandate given him in the chamber of deputies last night. The vote of confidence accorded the premier was considered a great political victory, the final ballot cast in the house being 381 to 186.

After days of debate which often was most bitter in character, M. Briand took the floor late yesterday afternoon to answer his critics and demand that his policies be vindicated. His answer to Andre Tardieu and M. Herriot, radical leader, was conciliatory in tone, but was firm in the defense of the policies followed by France in the past and proposed by the present ministry for the future. Before the premier's onslaught, the opposition lost ground rapidly and what seemed to be potential defeat yesterday morning was changed to a triumph.

Statements made by M. Tardieu in the chamber on Tuesday were variously interpreted and some of the versions sent out of Paris were said to have placed a construction upon his address which would seem to have placed M. Tardieu as favoring French support of Japan against the United States.

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 27.—President Harding's address in Birmingham on the race question was described as an "unfortunate and mischievous utterance" by Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, one of the Democratic leaders of the senate, in a formal statement issued today.

Senator Watson, Democrat, Georgia, also issued a statement in which he declared it was "a great pity that a northern man, holding the highest office on earth, should go down into the south and plant there fatal germs in the minds of the black race."

"The president's speech was unfortunate," said Senator Harrison, "but to have made it in the heart of the south where in some states the negro population predominates, was unfortunate in the extreme. Of course, every rational being desires to see the negro protected in his life, liberty and property. I believe in giving him every right under the law to which he is entitled, but to encourage the negro in some states, as in my own, where he exceeds the white population, in striving through every political avenue to be placed upon equality with the whites, is a blow to the white civilization of this country that will take years to combat."

"If the president's theory is carried out to its ultimate conclusion, namely that the black person, either man or woman, should have full economic and political rights with the white man and white woman, then that means that the black man can strive to become president of the United States, hold cabinet positions and occupy the highest places of public trust in the nation. It means that white women should work under black men in public places as well as in all trades and professions."

"I am against such theory because I know it is impracticable, it is unjust and it is destructive of the best ideals of America."

"Place the negro upon political and economic equality with the white man or woman and the friction between the races will be aggravated."

"The president is right in that the race question is a national one and not confined to any one section and his unfortunate and mischievous utterances on the subject will be deprecated by people in every section of the country who believe in the preservation of white civilization."

PITTSBURG, KANSAS, October 27.—The Gray Wolf mine, near Gross, Kansas, was wrecked by two charges of dynamite shortly before midnight last night.

ON STAND IN OWN DEFENSE
CLEVELAND, Oct. 27.—Dominic Benigno, on trial for the murder of Wilfred Sly, was to take the stand in his own defense today and was expected to be the final witness. Indications were that the case would be in the hands of the jury before nightfall.

In the event that a death verdict is not returned, the state has announced that Benigno will be tried on an indictment charging him with the murder of George K. Fauter, who with Sly was killed during a payroll robbery last December.

BAND THRICE CHAMPION

LONDON—Competing against 125 brass bands of the country, the 84th Hilda Colliery brass band of Durham, came out victor for the third time. This band played before the king at Buckingham Palace last February.

Adoption of the resolution of expulsion was asked by Republican Leader Mondell, who declared that while it was proper to inform the public of the reasons for what the house was called upon to do, "the publication of which is the basis of the charge, is of such a character that it can not be presented on the floor."

Mr. Mondell characterized the objectionable words in the affidavit submitted in the congressional record by Blanton as "unpleasantly vile, foul, filthy, profane, blasphemous and obscene."

BOARD MAY ORDER STRIKE CALLED OFF IN CASE UNION OFFICERS REFUSE

CHICAGO, October 27.—(By the Associated Press)—The executives of the five unions reassembled in a joint session at 3:00 o'clock this afternoon. Just before joining the meeting, W. G. Lee, president of the trainmen, said: "The situation is unchanged insofar as the men are concerned. Our strike ballot says that when one of the other unions goes out, we go. That stands."

The three grand vice presidents of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, H. P. Daugherty, L. G. Griffing and F. A. Burgess, arrived at the labor board headquarters at 3:30 p. m., and went into conference with Mr. Hooper.

Asked if he brought good tidings, Mr. Daugherty replied to a newspaper reporter: "Yes, but don't imagine that means too much."

CHICAGO, October 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Terms of the railroad labor board's final ruling on the strike, if the board decides one shall be necessary as discussed informally by members of the board, brought out these salient points:

1. That the impending walk-out must not be called.
2. That the walk-out, if called, will be in violation of the transportation act as it will be rebellion against decision No. 147—the July 1 wage cut made by the board pursuant to its authority under the act.
3. That the board will regard the strike, if called, for any other reason than dissatisfaction with the July 1 decision, as evidence of "conspiracy to paralyze transportation."

The board holds it would be contrary to court decisions and that the "right to strike" exists only where the strike is called upon grounds set forth in strike ballots. This refers to statements by some union leaders that they feared further reductions in wages and changes in working conditions would be made by the roads.

4. That members of the "big five" and telegraphers' union remain at work and rely upon the board to safeguard their interests from further encroachments possibly contemplated by the roads.

CHICAGO, October 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Ben W. Hooper, of the railroad labor board, left the conference of the big five union executives shortly after noon and said that the strike had not been settled yet, that settlement "could hardly be expected while he was at the meeting."

"Did you settle the strike?" Hooper was asked.

"Well, you could hardly expect them to do that with me in there," he replied.

"I was not sent by the board, but went on my own volition. I still believe that the only basis of settlement is the resolution recently adopted by the board."

Mr. Hooper referred to the board's request that the men refrain from striking and give the board a chance to act on questions of further wage reductions or rules, changes that the railroads may bring before it.

Mr. Hooper stated after the meeting that he wanted it understood that he had made no promises for the board or for himself.

President Lee, of the trainmen, accompanied Mr. Hooper back to the labor board offices and then returned to the brotherhood conference.

The union meeting broke up soon after Mr. Hooper left, with an announcement that the five organizations would hold separate meetings about 1:00 p. m. and a joint meeting at 3:00 p. m.

Mr. Hooper said the only thing he desired to bring before the meeting was the copy of the resolutions passed by the board.

"I have done that and they will now take the matter up," Mr. Hooper said. "We were surprised to find out that these men had never officially received a copy of this resolution. The board thought they had. Of course, they had seen parts of it and possibly all of it in the newspapers, but officially it had never reached them."

"Inasmuch as we discussed this resolution with the railroad executives, it was only natural that we should see that it was brought before this body today."

Labor leaders after the morning session indicated that there was no change in the railroad strike situation, but one of them when asked what would happen at the general meeting this afternoon, said:

"You never can tell."

It was stated that in addition to reading the board's resolution to the men, Mr. Hooper advised them against drastic action at this time. The leaders said that Mr. Hooper's remarks would be taken up in the separate meetings and later by the combined meeting.

Labor Board Wants
To Adjust The Dispute

CHICAGO, October 27.—(By the Associated Press)—Executive committees of the big five brotherhoods, the men who possess the power to call off the railroad strike, scheduled for next Sunday, met with their five chiefs today in conferences said to have been called at the instance of the railroad labor board.

The proposition said to have been made to the railroad employers after yesterday's public investigation is that they could call off the strike and entrust to the labor board adjustment of the complaints which led up to the strike vote.

Whether the brotherhood chiefs consider this a "satisfactory settlement" of their grievances, which they have insisted upon before revocation of the strike call, is the question to be decided at the conference of union leaders this morning.

T. C. Cashen, head of the switchmen, asserted after yesterday's session of the board's investigation that nothing had been brought out which would affect the strike call.

Board's Decision Today or Tomorrow
Members of the board announced after the hearing that they would make known their decision on the threatened strike, which the railroad executives said is in violation of the board's wage cut July 1, today or tomorrow.

Meanwhile, District Attorney Clyne, of Chicago, conferred with district attorneys of several other middle western cities to convey instructions issued him by Attorney General Daugherty, and today was on his way to visit federal officials in cities farther west to complete plans for whatever federal action is undertaken in the strike.

HOUSE REFUSES TO EXPEL BLANTON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—The house defeated today a resolution to expel Representative Blanton, Democrat, Texas. This action forced a favorable vote on a resolution to censure and to direct public reprimand of the Texas member.

Adoption of the resolution of expulsion was asked by Republican Leader Mondell, who declared that while it was proper to inform the public of the reasons for what the house was called upon to do, "the publication of which is the basis of the charge, is of such a character that it can not be presented on the floor."

Mr. Mondell characterized the objectionable words in the affidavit submitted in the congressional record by Blanton as "unpleasantly vile, foul, filthy, profane, blasphemous and obscene."

Crowded galleries were on hand when the resolution was brought up. Mr. Blanton entered the chamber a moment before the chaplain's prayer and took his accustomed seat in the second row and during Mr. Mondell's speech sat with his hand to his lips, looking in the opposite direction.

Mr. Blanton was pale, but smiling when Speaker Gillett gave him the privilege of the floor.

"If corridor reports are true," he said, "this will be my last speech in the house."

Referring to publication of the offending affidavit, Mr. Blanton said: "With God as my witness, I had no intent other than protecting citizens in their rights. There is no improper word used by me in the printed speech, and the sole and only document."

Diamond Ring Figures In Bribery Hearing

YOUNGSTOWN, O., October 27.—D. M. Brown, suspended chief of the federal prohibition squad here, today continued his testimony as a defense witness in the trial of David J. Scott, suspended safety director, on a bribery charge. The prosecution had shown that Brown freed an admitted bootlegger who had been arrested by city authorities and who is now a prosecution witness. Brown testified that he did not press the case in the federal courts—the reason he gave for dismissing the case—because of lack of evidence. He denied that the bootlegger had given him a diamond ring. Brown admitted that he had met the state's star witness Tuesday night under a bridge by appointment. Half a dozen defense witnesses' testimony yesterday that a diamond ring which two bootleggers testified they had bought for Scott had been presented to Scott by Frank Warlock at a picnic given in Scott's honor. None of them had contributed toward the ring or knew any one who had.

Twenty Four Years Ago

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Ault celebrated their twenty-fourth wedding anniversary at their Sciotoville home. A. L. Sanford left for Kansas on a business trip. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hibbs returned home from a nine months' sojourn in the west. They had a delightful vacation and came home much improved in health. A hired man whacked Jacob Berndt, dairy man, in the face with an ear of corn during a row over milking the cows. It cost W. A. Connolly the sum of $128.25 to make the race for representative on the Democratic ticket and in his novel statement of expenses filed were listed various small sums paid to persons "to get rid of."

Philip Prantz and Miss Alice Wirt were married at Holy Redeemer church. Dr. and Mrs. Crawford left for New York to spend a few days before going south for the winter. Miss Edith Zell returned to her home in Cincinnati, after a pleasant visit with friends here. Willy Platt and Elmer Fick were sold to the Philadelphia National League team by the management of the Dayton team. John Kah arrived home for the winter, after having spent the season with Maine's circus. James Ackerman, 21, and Susan Herron, 20, both of Portsmouth, were granted a license to wed.

Has He Found a Cure for Asthma?

Simple Prescription Gives Instant Relief, Makes Breathing Easy. In New England, where Bronchial Asthma, Bronchitis and other diseases of the throat and lungs are so prevalent, remarkably successful results are being reported following the use of a new form of treatment known as Oxidaze, a physician's prescription. Oxidaze is a harmless but powerful combination of curative essential oils concentrated and compressed into a small tablet. One of these tablets slowly dissolved before going to bed seems to have the effect of relaxing the muscular constriction of the bronchial tubes, opening up the air passages and regulating systematic lung action. This enables the patient to breathe easily and naturally while lying down and to get a comfortable night's sleep. So much interest has been shown that local druggists, including Wurster Bros., Fisher & Strick, have secured a small supply and state that they are authorized to refund the money paid for the first package if in any case this new treatment fails to give relief. Oxidaze is pleasant to take, contains no harmful, habit-forming drugs and is not expensive. This makes their test an easy matter.—Advertisement.

VETO DAVIS BOND PLAN

GAS IN THE STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion. Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by flat, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion." Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart. It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisulphate of Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and heat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisulphate of Magnesia (in powder or tablet form never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Advertisement.

If You Are For GOOD SCHOOLS

Are you in favor of good schools?

These men are:

WILLIAM BRANT AL TURNER JOHN S. VIOLET
For Members COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

William Brant is a farmer, born and raised in Bloom township. He served as a member of the Bloom Township Board of Education, being a member at the time the bond issue was carried almost unanimously for their new Township High School building. He played his full part well in providing better schools for the boys and girls of his district. There are few better High Schools anywhere in Rural districts than the Bloom Township High School at South Webster. Although William Brant has not been a member of the County Board for a very long time, yet he has taken a keen interest in school matters. William Brant measures four-square. He is a big man physically and mentally and deserves that re-election which the people will doubtless give him Tuesday, November 8th at the polls.

Al Turner was born and raised in Washington Township but has lived on his farm in Nile Township for many years. The older people will recollect his father as a Commissioner of Scioto County. Everybody knows Al Turner and what is more, he is well liked. He, too, is broad minded, conservative, a man of good business judgment and one whose word when once given is as good as his bond. For 16 years Al Turner has been a member of the Nile Township Board of Education, a state aid district. Those state aid districts are the ones with real difficult problems. In spite of difficulties they have had good Country Schools. State aid districts will surely stand by Al Turner. He knows their problems and will fight for them. As a member of the County Board Al Turner has always considered every question very carefully before making a decision, just the kind of a man the PEOPLE want. Who dares insult Al Turner by even insinuating that he could be dictated to? As a member of the County Board Al Turner deserves his share of the credit for the CONSTRUCTIVE SCHOOL DEVELOPMENT that has been made in the SCIOTO COUNTY SCHOOLS during the administration of County Superintendent McCowen, with which every man, woman and child in Scioto County is familiar. Al Turner stands on his record which every one is predicting the PEOPLE will endorse Tuesday, Nov. 8th, at the polls.

John S. Violet was born at Minford. He has been a resident of Valley Township for years, living on a farm there. He has served on the Valley Township Board of Education for a number of years. The people of Lucasville give him credit for his share of the work in developing their very excellent High School, one of the best. He has supported free text-books and progressive measures, uniformly, never voting against a measure for school support. Few men are more widely and more favorably known in Scioto County than John S. Violet, honest as the day is long, congenial, conservative, and FIRM. Everybody knows that. Can that man be dictated to? Try it and see. John S. Violet has the distinction of having been a member of the County Board of Education ever since the new law went into operation. He has, therefore, been a part of all school progress in the county and has been a great value as a Board member for seven years. His good record in assisting in all progress commends him to the favorable consideration of the PEOPLE and they will make no mistake in electing him, Tuesday, Nov. 8th, at the polls.

What has been said concerning each of the above named candidates can truthfully be said of them collectively. They are men of integrity and intelligence. They are absolutely honest and very untiring in their efforts to give the very best there is in education to those intrusted to their care.

This Good Schools Committee takes pleasure in presenting the names of these three men who offer to serve as members of the County Board of Education and asks your most careful consideration of their candidacy.

Bloodhounds Seek Trail Of Priest Murderer

LEAD, N. D., October 27.—Blood hounds sent here from Mitchell, South Dakota, are expected here today in an effort to trace the man whose call on Rev. A. B. Balknap here early yesterday was followed by the shooting of the priest on a highway just outside the city. City and county peace officers worked throughout yesterday and last night in effort to find something tangible in the many rumors which came to their attention. The fact that no one but the priest saw the man has given officers a severe handicap at the start. Bishop J. J. Lawler, at whose residence Father Balknap made his home, expressed the belief that the crime was the work of a mentally unbalanced person. Rewards totalling

Ingrown Nails Turn Right Out

A few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night. "Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.—Advertisement.

$1,000 have been offered for the arrest of the slayer.

The circumstances of the tragedy bear a striking resemblance to the recent murder in California of Rev. Patrick E. Heslin. Like the California case, Father Balknap was called from his home before daylight, ostensibly to administer the sacrament to a dying man. His automobile had been tampered with apparently, and he was forced to accompany his strange visitor on foot.

Several shots were heard by residents and the body was found in the highway.

MRS. H. H. GOODWIN READ HER LETTER

Dukedom, Tenn.—"I was in a weak, nervous, run-down condition and always tired so I could hardly drag around. A friend told me what Vinol had done for her when in this condition. I tried it and it is simply remarkable how rapidly it has built up my strength."—Mrs. H. H. Goodwin, Dukedom, Tenn.

If such women could only realize the change that Vinol will make in their appearance, by restoring strength and health, they would not rest until they had started its use. For all run-down, nervous, anemic conditions, weak women, overworked men, feeble old people and delicate children, there is no remedy like VINOL. Your druggist will return your money if Vinol fails to benefit you, and it is only $1.00 per bottle.—Advertisement.

Big Deal Closed

HUNTINGTON, Oct. 27.—Announcement was made yesterday of the purchase by the C. M. Morrison Store Company of the entire stock and business of the Eighth avenue store of the McMahon-Diehl Company, at Eighth avenue and Twentieth street. The deal was consummated yesterday afternoon and the store has been closed since Tuesday morning for inventory.

J. T. Diehl, of the McMahon-Diehl Company, stated yesterday that he and his associates had decided that it would be to their interest to give all their attention to their downtown store. This step has been under consideration, Mr. Diehl added, since the large volume of business at the Third avenue store necessitated expansion, and the leasing of the I. O. O. F. property at Third avenue and Tenth street.

More Rumors About Ashland Steel Plant

The Irontonian this morning said: "A report is current that the Ashland Steel Plant has been sold to a large wire and steel company, although the truth of the report has not yet been verified."

"It is also rumored that the A. O. & I. railroad has been taken over by the Ford interests, who will operate it in conjunction with the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton road. The C. & O. Railway Company, which has a contract with the A. O. & I. to run trains to Hitehins, Ky., over the A. O. & I. road, has begun preliminary work on a branch road to Hitehins to be owned by the O. & O., and which will make the run much shorter. The twenty year lease which the C. & O. has on the A. I only used one bottle and I gained seven pounds in weight. I could eat anything, including a number of articles at diet tables which I had not been able to eat. #### Fourth Explosion

A sewer gas explosion in a storm sewer at Gallia and Harrison avenue, New Boston, caused considerable excitement in that end of the village about 6:30 o'clock last evening.

This is the fourth explosion in about six months. Leaky gas mains are given as the cause of the fire and explosions. The gas is thought to have leaked into the sewer main where it was ignited by a cigarette or cigar stub. The New Boston fire department was called but before a stream of water could be poured into the sewer the gas exploded and blew off sewer and manhole lids for several squares away. Lids of sewers on Rhodes avenue were blown.

McLaughlin Is Found Guilty

It required less than ten minutes for a jury in Common Pleas court Wednesday afternoon to return a verdict of guilty against the defendant in the paternity suit of Helen W. W. boemer, young Findlay street, unmarried woman, against Cecil McLaughlin, local carpenter, of 605 Boundary street.

Judge Thomas promptly ordered McLaughlin to pay $1200 for the support of his pretty six months old baby, which was an interesting exhibit in the case, the court ordering $100 to be paid at once and the remainder at the rate of $10 a month.

Don Bender, young automobile salesman of Charleston, W. Va., one of the principal witnesses for the defense, came to grief at the conclusion of the trial when Judge Thomas called him before the bar and ordered him held under $500 bond for grand jury action for alleged perjury in connection with his testimony given in the case. The accused attempted to prove an alibi and it was in this connection that Bender testified that McLaughlin visited him at Charleston over the Fourth of July 1920 which was in wide variance with testimony adduced by the prosecution which pointed strongly to the fact that the defendant was in this city on that date.

McLaughlin and Bender were unable to give bond and they were taken to the county jail.

On the stand the complainant, who is rather comely, declared that McLaughlin was the father of her child. She told of the defendant's promise to marry her and of seeking to induce her to withdraw the charge against him by promises "to take care of her." McLaughlin denied her statements and his attempt to prove an alibi fell flat.

Miss Grace Jones a young woman who lives at 607 Washington street, who was called by the defense, caused a ripple of laughter to spread over the court-room, when, after admitting that she had been keeping company with McLaughlin for almost two years, declared that she expected to marry him as soon as he got a divorce. She identified a letter purporting to have been written to her by McLaughlin from Charleston on the day he claimed to have been there.

The jury which heard the case was composed of four women and eight men and the entire panel concurred in the verdict.

Attorney B. F. Kimble appeared for the complainant and Attorneys Blair and Blair for the accused.

NEW BATTLE OPENED BETWEEN THE WETS AND DRYS OVER BEER USE

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Tuesday marked the beginning of another great battle between "drys" and "wets" over the use of beer and light wines for medicinal purposes. The Treasury Department has issued certain regulations permitting physicians to prescribe beer or wine for the sick. Congress has under consideration a bill which would wipe out those regulations the instant the measure is passed, which probably will be within a few weeks.

To Fight It Out In Courts

Then the controversy will go to the courts to determine whether the prohibition amendment to the Federal Constitution intended to prohibit the manufacture of intoxicating liquors "for beverage purposes" only, or whether the American people who supported the amendment intended that the sick should of course be permitted to have whatever physicians thought would assist their return to health.

Physicians Fight Bill

The so-called anti-beer bill now pending in Congress has been attacked by some physicians as dangerous and defended by others as of no consequence to the practice of medicine. Senator Ball, of Delaware, himself a physician, has fought vehemently against the measure, declaring that in his experience the use of liquors had been of considerable benefit to patients.

Question Of Constitutionality

The great question is whether the anti-beer bill which would amend the Volstead act in Constitutional. Only the Supreme Court of the United States can decide that. A test case will surely be brought the moment the measure has gone through Congress.

Both Sides Fight It

Meanwhile, the issuance of the Treasury Department of the new regulations interpreting the original Volstead act as permitting physicians to prescribe beer or wines is variously regarded. Some of the drys think it is intended to prejudice their cause by crystallizing public opinion on the subject of the use of liquors for medicinal purposes. Some of the liberals insist that the regulations were issued so as to stimulate the dry forces into getting the anti-beer bill through Congress.

Between Two Fires

The truth is the Treasury Department has for more than a year been between two fires—the Anti-Saloon League on the one hand, insisting that the regulations be held up so Congress could act, while the owners of breweries and other manufacturing establishments have insisted that the Treasury had no right to prevent the manufacture of beer and light wines for medicinal purposes in the absence of a specific law to the contrary.

Breweries Expected It

Indeed, many brewers, especially in the old wet states, have been kept in commission for more than a year because of an expectation that the regulations would be issued any day.

Attorney General Palmer was the first to render the opinion that the Volstead act couldn't prevent the making of beer and light wines for physicians' prescription. Attorney General Daugherty concurred in that view but the Treasury Department has been hesitant to do anything that might involve it in the controversy going on in Congress.

May Hold Up Anti-Beer Bill

It has begun to look lately, however, as if the anti-beer amendment to the Volstead act might be indefinitely held up. There's a clause in it permitting prohibition agents to search private homes and private property without a warrant and this is declared by Senators, some of whom are "wet" and some of whom have voted "dry," be a violation of Article 5 of the Federal Constitution guaranteeing citizens against unlawful search of their dwellings. It would not be surprising if the prohibition forces had to yield their point about search and seizure in order to get the anti-beer bill through. Even then, the contest will be carried to the courts on other grounds of unconstitutionality.

Regulations Not Far Reaching

As a matter of fact, the new Treasury regulations will not be far-reaching. They do not in any way affect the many dry states which passed laws prohibiting the bringing into their jurisdiction of any intoxicating liquors. The state laws are by no means uniform, but no federal law can, of course, grant a right on the subject of liquor enforcement which is taken away by state law.

Breweries May Start

In such state as New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Illinois, California which never went dry before the eighteenth amendment was adopted, the new Treasury regulations will permit breweries to resume at once the manufacture and bottling of liquors for medicinal purposes. The regulations are so drawn that a concern which manufactures "near-beer" will have to build a separate plant for real beer and wines so as to avoid any possibility of confusing the products of each plant. Supervision by government agents at periodical intervals is provided for and a record will be kept of all transactions so the government can easily determine whether the privilege of making beer and wines for medicinal purpose is abused. One of the penalties will be revocation of the permit to make any intoxicating liquors.

Just as soon as Congress passes the anti-beer bill, the new regulations will be officially nullified. Many brewers are not likely to invest money in preparing for medicinal beer and wine business with the prospect of seeing the permission taken away at any moment within the next sixty days. The period of waiting will be continued until the Supreme Court has said the final word.

A Mystery Cake Can you name it?

Here is another new Royal Cake, so delicious and appetizing that we have been unable to give it a name that does justice to its unusual qualities. It can be made just right only with Royal Baking Powder. Will you make it and name it?

$500 for the Best Names

For the name selected as best, we will pay $250. For the second, third, fourth, and fifth choice, we will pay $100, $75, $50, and $25 respectively.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER COMPANY
128 William Street, New York

How to make it

Use level measurements for all materials

1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg
2 1/2 cups flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1 cup milk
1 1/2 teaspoons (1 1/2 oz.) of unsweetened chocolate (melted)
1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream shortening. Add sugar and mixed orange rind. Add beaten egg yolks. Sift together flour, salt and Royal Baking Powder and add alternately with the milk; lastly fold in the beaten egg white. Divide batter into two parts. To one part add the chocolate. Put by tablespoonfuls, alternating dark and light batter, into three greased layer cake pans. Bake in moderate oven 20 minutes.

FILLING AND ICING

3 tablespoons melted butter
3 cups confectioner's sugar
1 egg white
Powdered sugar may be used but does not make as smooth icing
1 cup milk
1 1/2 cups (1 1/2 oz.) of unsweetened chocolate (melted)
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 egg white
3 squares (3 oz.) unsweetened chocolate

Put butter, sugar, orange juice and rind into bowl. Cut pulp from orange, removing skin and seeds and add. Beat all together until smooth. Fold in beaten egg white. Spread this icing on layer used for top of cake. While icing is soft, sprinkle with unsweetened chocolate shaved in fine pieces with sharp knife (use 1/2 ounce). To remaining icing add 1/2 square unsweetened chocolate which has been melted. Spread this thickly between layers and on sides of cake.

Harding Is In Georgia

COLUMBUS, GEORGIA, October 27.—President Harding arrived here early today on his four day swing through the south, and with members of his party visited Camp Benning, an infantry school near here.

A two hour stop at Camp Benning to inspect the infantry training school, took President Harding off the direct route of his southern trip today and delayed his arrival at Atlanta, where he will deliver an address late this afternoon.

The presidential special departed late last night from Birmingham, to which city Mr. Harding had journeyed to make a speech on the race problem and was routed to reach Camp Benning shortly after 7:30 a. m. today. During the stop Secretary of War Weeks, a member of the president's party, arranged to take the executive for a tour over the extensive tract used for training maneuvers, and also requested a demonstration of the use of various agencies of infantry warfare.

Leaving the camp at 9:30 a. m., the train was due at Atlanta at 1:30 p. m. The president will have luncheon there at the Druid Hills Country Club, will speak late in the afternoon at the Grady monument and will depart early in the evening for Washington.

"SUNDAY SCHOOL NIGHT" TONIGHT

TONIGHT—8:45 p. m.—Sunday School Night. Pupils and teachers meet at their respective schools and churches. The sessions will be held at 7:30 p. m. and 8:45 p. m. Service. "Booster Chorus" program. Selections—Albert Choir. 8:00 p. m.—Sermon. Rev. William Shannon. FRIDAY—8:45 p. m.—Prayer service. 9:00 p. m.—Sermon. Rev. William Shannon. 9:15 p. m.—"Men's Night." Sermon by Rev. Wm. W. Shannon. "Fighting Devils."

Tonight will be the big night for the young folks of the two co-operating churches in the union evangelistic campaign now in progress at Bigelow M. E. church. For it is "Sunday School Night." At 8:45 p. m. the pupils of the First Presbyterian church will meet in their own Sunday school room with their teachers, and march from there to Bigelow church, where they will be met by the Bigelow congregation, entering the church together. The "Booster Chorus" or "Junior Chorus," composed of young folks under 15 from both churches, will sing. They have been rehearsing faithfully, and will give a good account of themselves, without doubt. The big man who has made such an impression on Portsmouth in the three days he has been here, will have a big message. Of this there is not the slightest doubt in the mind of any who have heard him at any of these services.

Tomorrow night is designated as "Men's Night," when Mr. Shannon will deliver his famous address on "Fighting Devils." Ladies are invited to attend, and special seats are reserved for them. Mr. Shannon is "peculiarly gifted" in that he is able to preach a real sermon to men, and yet invite the ladies to be present.

The city is being carressed with invitations to all men of Portsmouth, regardless of church or creed, and the co-operation of pastors and men of other churches, not organically connected with this campaign, is most gratifying.

Last night we all went a-fishing, led by a master-fisherman. With the familiarity born of a rich experience in the art, Mr. Shannon made vivid use of every means known to the angler's craft to illustrate "The Divine Art"—how men are to be won for Christ.

Those who had not considered the gentle art of fishing as one of the Fine Arts, were certainly inspired to change their opinions last night, as the speaker brought into use nets big and little, pocket-nets, gill-nets, drag-nets, throw-nets, hooks and lines, baits of every description, the season, the place, the hour, and the necessary genius in the fisherman. "To catch fish," he said, "means more than a line, a rod, and an automobile."

Mr. Shannon emphasized the "one-by-one" method as the most vital element in catching men for Christ. He illustrated this in characteristic fashion from his own experience as a politician, going over the post-book, and sending out the men for real personal work on the electorate, as the wise way to catch votes. "If the followers of Jesus had as much concern over our own work as the politicians have over theirs, there would be no question as to the results. It is personal work and not the big noise that gets men. We use too much artificial bait; it takes men to catch men, and the real gospel of a living Christ."

EAGLES OPEN HALL MORTGAGE BURNED; MAYOR MAKES ADDRESS

One of the biggest and most interesting meetings held by the Eagles was the session held last night when the renovated hall was formally opened, the mortgage on the building burned, and a dance held.

The hall was crowded all the evening many turning out to inspect the splendid hall, now one of the best lodge rooms and dance halls in this section of the state. The paying off of the debt on the building years before contemplated has caused much rejoicing among the members who turned out last night to witness the burning of the mortgage. At the short business session before the burning of the mortgage Mayor William Gableman, who has always been an active member of the lodge delivered the following address:

"My name appears among the list of charter members of this Aerie. I was your secretary for many years. You have honored me further by electing me to the office of Worthy President several years ago and I represented this Aerie at the Grand Lodge meeting held in Baltimore.

This building was purchased while I was in the secretary's office. Many of you here recall this transaction and know the history of the purchase. At this time, I will refreshen the memories of those of us who were members of River City Aerie at that time and give those members who have affiliated with this organization since that time a few of the details as well.

This building was the property of the late Hon. H. S. Grimes. Mr. Grimes was a charter member of the Portsmouth Lodge of Elks. He was an active and a devoted member of the Elks, and in the brightness of his heart he offered this building to the Elks Lodge at a very low figure. It was his notion, I afterwards learned, to make a financial sacrifice in order that the organization he loved so well would have the opportunity of securing a permanent home.

At first, I personally, did not give his proposition very much thought or consideration. But I did take up the matter with several of the then officials of the Aerie and others among our influential members in an informal way. I thought I had a true line on our membership body. I had been the secretary of the Aerie for several years and always had pride in the thought that I was closer to the individual membership of the Eagles than any other member. A secretary should be. But, to my great surprise, I found that every member to whom I conversed received the matter with intense enthusiasm and the spirit which was, of course, necessary to put this across. As a result, a proposition which at the start appeared to me as being entirely out of the question was soon rolling as a snowball, small at the start, becoming larger as it went along but always having sufficient strength behind it to keep the ball becoming larger and the lead heavier.

So the building was purchased and we are in burn the mortgage this evening. What a feeling of thrill it is all. You have chosen for this occasion an evening that happens to be during a period of time when I never found myself busier. You have honored me by extending to me the invitation to come and speak to you. If you had not extended this invitation and had overlooked me in this matter, I would have been disappointed for it would have been a bitter disappointment for me not only not to be here but to take part in your program. For I love the River City Aerie of Eagles. This organization is not next to my heart but it is my heart. True, I have found it impossible to be here often of late at the regular meetings but I have always kept in close touch with affairs down here. And the word reached me that matters were not right or as they should have been, you would have found me here battling for what was right regardless of consequences and at the expense of any other proposition in which I might have been engaged.

And now, in conclusion, I want to pay my respects to not only the present officials of the Aerie and those officials who have served you so well during the time this obligation has been discharged but to our membership. The activities of all have been all that could have been desired and due credit must be given. For it is an easy matter to create obligations but an entirely different matter to discharge them. We have now not only a magnificent permanent home, free of all obligations but have also set the example of achievement which is bound to work to the benefit of the future activities of the Aerie.

Following the business meeting refreshments were served and the hall was cleared for the dance which lasted until a late hour. Music was furnished by Journey's orchestra. The lodge is to hold dances every Wednesday and Friday nights during the winter season.

Democrats Renew Fight For Greater Tax On Corporations Than The Republicans Plan

WASHINGTON, D. C., October 27.—Senate Democrats renewed today the fight for a greater tax on corporations after this calendar year than is proposed by the compromise revenue revision program agreed upon by Republican leaders.

Having been defeated in their efforts to keep at least a portion of the excess profits tax after next December 31, the minority apparently were more determined than ever in pushing proposals for a corporation income tax provision which would bring a greater return to the government than would be realized from the fifteen per cent rate proposed in the bill. Majority leaders believed, however, that they had sufficient votes to put through the fifteen per cent provision.

The senate worked today under a unanimous consent agreement that before recess it would dispose of all amendments to the corporation income tax section, except that by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, proposing a graduated tax of 12 1/2 to 25 per cent, dependent upon the size of the net profits of the corporation. The maximum rate would apply on all of that part of net income in excess of $500,000.

General debate on this section of the bill was to end at 4 p. m. Amendments then would be in order, with the sponsors given five minutes each to explain their proposed changes.

"Republican leaders hoped to reach soon another unanimous consent agreement with the Democrats with a view to speeding up action on the bill. With the disposition of the corporation tax question, the only important controversial features remaining will be the inheritance tax, proposed tax on undistributed profits of corporations and the Smoot manufacturers' sales tax.

FINED $1,000

Charles Leonard and John Music, charged with violating the prohibition law, were convicted at their hearing before Squire William McManes held at the county jail office Thursday afternoon and the magistrate passed them a fine of $1000 each. The defendants through their attorney, Horace L. Small, promptly gave notice of their intention of prosecuting error proceedings to the Common Pleas court and they were released from custody on bond.

Leonard and Music were arrested several days ago at Fourteenth and Findlay streets by Prohibition Enforcement Officers Hutchinson and Jones. The men were in Leonard's automobile at the time and as the officers approached the machine, it was claimed, Music attempted to destroy the "evidence" by slamming a glass jar containing some fluid said to have been moonshine liquor to the pavement.

The prohibition agents Thursday in a raid at Candy Run, back of Lucasville, arrested Martin Sheppard and James Elliott and brought them before the court to meet charges of manufacturing and possessing illicit liquor. The accused men will be given a hearing late today, it was stated.

Home-made, but Has No Equal for Coughs

Makes a family supply of really dependable relief medicine.

It is a fact that a severe cough or chest cold accompanied with soreness, throat tickle, hoarseness, or difficulty breathing, or if your child wakes up during the night with a cold and you want quick help, try this reliable old home-made cough remedy.

Any drug store can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. This recipe makes a pint of the best cough remedy. It is really good, and in spite of its low cost, it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

You can feel this like hold of a cough in a way that means business. It loosens and raises the phlegm, stops throat tickle and soothes and heals the irritated membranes that line the throat and bronchial tubes with such promptness, ease and certainty that it is really astonishing. Pinex is a special and highly concentrated extract of genuine Norway pine extract, and is probably the best known means of overcoming severe coughs, throat and chest colds. There are no narcotics or irritating ingredients in this mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept a weaker one. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

CONFESSIONS OF A MOVIE STAR

CHAPTER X—JIMMY ALCOTT SURPRISES ME

ISMEARED on my greasy paint, covered it with delicate yellowish powder, outlined a very short cupid's bow on my lips, slipped into the dress my maid had laid out, and rushed for my place on the set.

As I wished, the actors were placed and ready to be "discovered" when Demaison called "Camera-a! Camera-a!"

Now I usually commence to work up emotion—tenderness or fear or jealousy or whatever the scenario calls for—about 20 feet off a set.

That morning I was to register "surprise," supreme astonishment. I was to recognize my own husband in the rush of the piece.

I rushed onto the set, and for once, the cameras caught a genuine emotion stamped upon my features.

"I made the first big emotional hit of my career," McMasters, our producer, had come to the studios early, and he applauded my act vehemently.

THE GREAT SECRET
Came the week before Christmas and Cherry was hard at work on a commission of holiday hats, and as busy as a bee every moment of the day.

There was a festive air about the house of Mary, and the girls were aquiver with the true holiday spirit.

Now and then Cherry tried to picture Christmas, the day of days, with her loved one. Her heart ached at the thought. She longed to write to Neil, in spite of his silence, in spite of everything that had ever been gaily of. In fact she wanted him more than anything else in the whole world. There was a new reason now. One which caused the blood to ebb away from her heart whenever she thought of this tiny new reason and herself facing the spring alone. No husband, no father. Surely the fates had joked with her.

In spite of her discovery Cherry.

Clerks To Meet
Division Chairman A. M. Cross of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks has received notice to call a special meeting for Friday night at 7:30. It will be held in Trainmen's hall on Gallia street, East End, at which time General Chairman C. B. Lane of Romance of the Clerks' Union will be present to make a report on conferences with the wage board in Chicago.

Demaison, my director, was so excited that he lapsed into his native tongue. "Bien! Bien! Magnifique—tenez!" Which was extremely trying. I didn't want to "hold" but I had to obey.

How could Demaison or McMasters know I wasn't acting at all? Dick Barnes—Jimmy Alcott in the flesh.

But we couldn't speak to each other. That would ruin the director's work and his temper. We couldn't exchange a smile of recognition. If we did, the cameras would betray us. Not a clenching sign could we make! Not even by a whisper could I welcome Jimmy.

Dick Barnes was an unusually wicked villain in "Love in Leash." Once I thought that I wouldn't care to be very friendly with a man who could dream and do such evil so well; more than once I had to remind myself that it was all in his role. Even so, how after confiding in her mother, had decided to keep right on with her work, as long as possible. It would mean added luxuries for the wee mite who would some day call her "mother."

Whenever she fell to dreaming of that wonderful day a great flood of tenderness surged through her, as she remembered her own dear mother, and her untiring devotion through the years and her struggle single-handed. Then a fear would fall at the thought that she, Cherry, was doomed to go through the same experience.

Just a baby in the little house at plushville would bring sunshine, new hope. It was good to be alive, and to live with this hope, ever before one, good to be strong and capable of earning a substantial living, come what may.

As long as she had ten willing fingers her baby would never want, and if it was a girl—ye gods the hats those same ten fingers would evolve for it through the years! Yes, at least Cherry had this thought to console her when she felt blue.

When first she had found out that there was to be a baby the wonder-struck girl had nearly wired her husband to tell him the great news. But pride had held her back again. That stupid pride.

With a smile of joy on her lips she went on working with double energy, and with double fear, at times, in her the most wonderful layette that ever an infant was blessed with. Mrs. Lawrence served untiringly, day after day, and helped her daughter to plan and cut out the wee garments when dusk had fallen.

"We'll call her Hope, mother. If she's a little girl," said Cherry softly one evening as they sat round a low fire sewing. "And if it's a boy—if it's a boy—I just don't know what I'll call it."

Even as the words left her mouth she thought of how more than heavily it would be to call it Ned, but that was out of the question now.

could he play such a terrible part so admirably, how could he murder his own father so convincingly, unless there actually was in his heart some germ of evil—of cowardice which I had not perceived in Jimmy Alcott?

I waited for Dick to come up to me when the camera men stopped clicking. Others came to tell me that I had registered surprise, confusion, doubt in swift succession and with extraordinary success.

McMasters was enthusiastic. I considered him very kind. Some of the generosity of the actors was perhaps an imitation of the producers. I listened, smiled, kept my eyes on the new member of the company—and waited.

I was ready to hold out eager hands to welcome him. What grand pals he and I would be in the difficult movie game! He would be a dear big brother to me! But of Mother's worries would drop from her shoulders.

McMasters detained Dick Barnes. I waited. Usually I run to my dressing room at once upon leaving a set, but I never could run away from Jimmy Alcott.

Mother's dear was not chaperoning me that day. Mrs. Naudy was her substitute. I would take Dick home with me to dinner. We would surprise Mother. She would love to see him. She had heaps of tact and sympathy. And we would hear about Jimmy's disappearance. And Mother dear would say the right comforting thing.

The new man's eyes were on mine as McMasters talked to him, but there was no smile of recognition in them. I saw him coming toward me with the air of a stranger.

MRS. HAYDOCK SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Followed Advice of Her Druggist's Wife and Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chicago, Ill.—"I was in bed with a female trouble and inflammation for four doctors but none of them did me any good. They all said I would have to have an operation. A druggist's wife told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took 22 bottles, never missing a dose and at the end of that time I was perfectly well. I have a six room flat and do all my work. My two sisters are taking the Compound upon my recommendation and you may publish my letter. It is the gospel truth and I will write to anyone who wants a personal letter."

Mrs. E. H. HAYDOCK, 622 St. Lawrence Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved Mrs. Haydock from an operation we cannot claim that all operations may be avoided by it—but many women have escaped operations by the timely use of this old fashioned root and herb medicine.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

The United States adopted standard time in 1883, on the initiative of the American Railway Association. By the Daylight Savings Act of 1918 standard time was made the legal time throughout the United States. The Daylight Savings plan, or the movement known as this name proposed "to set the clock ahead" one hour in the summer months, or to be more exact from May 1 to October 1, the idea being to substitute an hour of sunlight at one end of the day for an hour of artificial light at the beginning of the other, was passed on March 10, 1918 by the congress of the United States, and on March 19, 1918 President Wilson approved the Daylight Savings Act, under the terms of which standard time throughout the United States and Alaska was advanced one hour for the period in each year, beginning at 2 a. m. on the last Sunday in March and ending at 2 a. m. on the last Sunday in October. This act was passed as a war measure to save light and fuel, and was revoked at the end of the war. The Daylight Savings Plan is not a state law but is up to each city or municipality to determine whether or not they shall or shall not have "new" and "old" time. The voters of Portsmouth will have an opportunity to decide this question at the election, Tuesday, November 8th.

Dear Dolly—I am coming to you for advice, as my best friend is sore at me, at least I think he is sore at me, but I can't think of a thing I have done to offend him. I am heart-broken over the affair. I asked him to tell me what was the matter and all he would say is that I wasn't you. I can't get anything else out of him. I hate to give him up as I am all alone, and I have no one to tell my secrets to and no one to say a cheerful word to me. Dolly, I feel awful over his way of doing. He always has been so good to me until the last two weeks. I am not hard to please and not stubborn. I really think I am too easy. You see I am out in this world alone, and I am so sick to have him turn a cold shoulder to me. I hope to see your answer real soon. BROWN EYES

If the man says he isn't mad at you why don't you believe him and let it go at that? He's probably worried about something else. Perhaps he lost the ball game or some other kind of a game and is worried about that. Or maybe he has financial worries that you know nothing about, and he doesn't want to tell you. Don't heckle him by asking him if he is mad at you or what you have done, etc. Let him alone and he will come around all right. It doesn't pay to monkey with a sore spot or a sore person. Let them both strictly alone.

Dear Dolly—Has the fire department a right to speed when coming to a fire? Accidents in which the department figures are entirely too numerous. The police also go up and down the streets at unreasonable speed in the police cars. Isn't there any law for policemen speeding and parking and running without lights, the same as there is not any other citizen's?

A CITIZEN.
I agree with you that the department goes too fast and from fires. It would be better to let the whole town burn down than to kill one human being. There are also hundreds of drivers of private machines who imagine they are driving fire trucks and rush through the streets like wild men or mad men or what-not, regardless of pedestrians or anything else. Gallia street from Lincoln to Chillicothe is a veritable speedway for reckless drivers.

Dear Dolly—I am in love with a man of 24 and I am 18 and he tells me he loves me. He is never seen with other girls and he surely treats me fine. Do you think he loves me?

PEACHES AND CREAM.
You never can tell, Peaches. Perhaps he tells every other girl he is with the same thing. As a rule a man who talks about love all the time is never serious. Don't believe everything he tells you.

Dear Dolly—Do you know where I could have a set of furs dyed and do you know for sure what will color dandruff? BLUE EYES.
I don't know anything for sure, but I have an idea that you could have furs dyed at a professional dye house.

PROSPECTS OF COUNTY SECURING GAME PRESERVE ARE VERY BRIGHT; BIG RECEPTION FOR GOVERNOR DAVIS

That Scioto county has a splendid chance to secure one of the first and largest game preserves to be established by the State of Ohio in this section was the message brought to about 150 representative citizens and interested sportsmen when Governor Harry L. Davis addressed them at a banquet rendered the city's honored guest at the Washington Hotel by the Chamber of Commerce last night. Governor Davis, speaking on behalf of the people of the state, said that he was certain a big game refuge and refectory station would be located in southern Ohio and near Portsmouth, but that he was not in a position just at this time to say just where this tract would be purchased. His remarks during the evening, when he spoke very highly of the tract inspected Wednesday afternoon in the western part of the county as an ideal site, gave the local citizens and sportsmen a great deal of encouragement, and now that the state's chief executive has seen and personally inspected the proposed site, the citizens of the Portsmouth City have hopes that his recommendations will be more than favorable for the location of the game preserve in this county.

State Director of Finance Floyd E. Waite and State Game Warden A. C. Baxter in their brief remarks had nothing but words of praise for the tract proposed for the game refuge in this county and both pledged themselves to help Scioto county land this game preserve and refectory station. Game Warden Baxter saying that there was not any other tract of land in Ohio so well adapted as that in the western part of the county for such a preserve. Talks were made by Attorney A. H. Bannan and Vallee Harold of the Chamber of Commerce, the gentlemen making it plain to the Governor and his party that Scioto county was the ideal place for such a game refuge. Should the impressions made on the Columbus visitors yesterday by local people interested in the project have any bearing, Scioto county certainly stands a fine chance of securing the much sought after refuge. Such a refuge will mean the purchase of thousands of acres by the state and other counties besides Scioto are making a bid for the game refuge. Scioto county is showing probably more interest than any other county and the interest displayed by the local citizens may be a big factor in the state officials determining just where the land will be purchased. Governor Davis indicated last night that the only big factor in the final decision was the obtaining of a fair price on the proposed land and with a fair price asked the matter of buying the tract would be an easy matter.

The Reception
The reception and banquet at the Washington Hotel last night was a big success, several hundred people crowding into the lobby of the hotel, between 6:30 and 7:30 to shake hands with the state's head executive who was there willing to grasp the hand of all those people who wished to see him. The banquet started at 7:30 sharp with 140 persons being served. A splendid menu of several courses was served, after which Dr. W. D. Tremper took charge as toastmaster and first introduced Mayor William Gableman, who delivered the words of welcome to the Governor and his party.

Mayor Gableman Gives Welcoming Address
Mayor Gableman said, "On behalf of the City of Portsmouth and its local citizens I extend you and your party most cordial welcome. I hope that you have fully enjoyed every minute of our brief stay among us, and hope that you will take back to Columbus with you many pleasant memories of this visit with Scioto county citizens."

A. H. Bannan Is First Speaker
Toastmaster Tremper then introduced Attorney A. H. Bannan who had the following to say in behalf of the county as to why Scioto county should have the proposed game refuge.

It was not only natural, but necessary, that the pioneers of this county should resort to hunting as a means of securing a livelihood, and the hunting business was good in those days, so good that an inspection of the bills of fare for Thanksgiving dinners in New York hotels 100 years ago, indicate seven out of eight items were game meat of some kind, and the dinner was only 50 cents per head, with three different hard drinks added. But with the advance of humanity westward this free meat gradually diminished until the business of securing it fell into the hands of a few market hunters and sportsmen who for many years gloured their harvest unmolested by laws. As early a settler as Daniel Boone, had a vision of the doom which awaited the wild deer and recommended the passage of laws for their protection, but laws came too late and the game of all sorts followed the Indian and buffalo to the Happy Hunting Ground where they now are, I hope.

Hunting Habit Served A Wonderful Purpose

This hunting habit served a wonderful purpose. It increased the virility, stamina and courage of the American people as no other form of training could have done, and the continued success of this race of red-blooded athletes and fighters still depends in no small degree on the maintenance, in some form of hunting as a sport. It can no longer be a business, because it will never again support its followers; but if you want to know what sort of a birthmark this hunting habit has left on young men of our land, look at the money which rolls into the hunting license fund. These licensed hunters, paying as they do for their sport, are entitled to have their sport maintained out of the fund created by them; and it is to spend some of this easy money that we are here tonight. The sportsman with his hunting license in his pocket is a better sport than he is without it. The license gives him a feeling of being a part of the organization which has for its function the propagation and preservation of game. It is estimated that the sportsman spend in Ohio an average of $25.00 for every head of game brought to bag. Quite a little boost to our circulating currency.

But to keep warm the sporting blood is not the chief value of our wild life, nor is it to be found in the place they occupy on our tables.

Even their utility to the farmers is secondary to their aesthetic value which serves as an added attraction to any country. The beauty, grace, the stirring calls and lively ways of all wild life make the land they inhabit a more interesting place to live in. As objects of observation and admiration they are of far greater service to the majority of outdoor people, and to those that seek needed outdoor recreation in the country, than they are to the gunner, the market man or the sportsman.

It is those who love nature for her own sake, who take delight in the living bird, those whose ears are tuned to their notes and calls and who have that quality of mind which sees more profit in the living bird in its native element than in its bloody and bedraggled carcass. They are the ones who must see to it that these birds are conserved. Our lakes and rivers, our woods and fields have lost much of their attractiveness, and it is our duty before it is too late to restore to them the life which once made them beautiful. Americans are turning naturally to the country life and it is to this great and ever increasing army of lovers of the great outdoors that we must look to help us in our task.

Sportsman To Pay The Bill

The sportsman will pay the bill willingly. The farmer, the idealist and the scientist who have these beautiful aesthetic ideas are not willing to pay for their pleasure as the sportsman is willing to pay for his fun, with the result that a compromise must be made and if you accept, the sportsman's money for a license fee you must provide a way whereby he can get the good of it according to his way of seeing things. That is the way these great game refuges and public hunting preserves are made possible.

Do you realize that the increase in the great army of lovers of the great outdoors is due largely to the good roads and automobiles, with the result that there is now no good fishing or hunting in this United States anywhere within reach of an auto that cannot be exhausted of its game by one automobile load of hunters in twenty-four hours?

There are lands a short distance below the Raven Rock farm in this county which belonged to General Duncan McArthur, a former governor of this state, and it was out that land that the last Indian was killed by a white man in this state. The Indian was assassinated at a deer lick and an old tree stump, within sight of the pike was once pointed out to me as the monument to the killing. The excuse given for the killing was that the deer was poisoning the white man's preserves. Strange as it may appear, the last wild deer killed in Ohio, was killed in 1895 on Turkey Creek in the western part of the county. So far as that dead Indian is concerned, I am not well enough posted as to his excuse for living to justify the shedding of any tears, or to indulge in any sentimentality, and I am satisfied that his remains shall be undisturbed; and his antecedents rest in peace. But as to the deer, and its successors in title to the wild lands of the West Side, I am very anxious to inaugurate a resurrection, and it seems to me that it is quite fitting that this should be done in the locality where the deer family in Ohio made its last stand.

First Step To Acquire Preserve

This is the first important step of any magnitude which the state has taken in the direction of acquiring a land forest and game preserve. Our familiarity with these old West Side lands breeds in us a sort of contempt for them and it sounds like a child's dream to talk of the new great Atlantic and Pacific highway which is now being laid out across the continent from New York, via Washington, Charleston, West Virginia, Huntington and Portsmouth, down the Ohio river to Memphis, Tennessee, and thence to the southwest, destined to be an antiquated roadway open to travel through all seasons of the year and that the most beautiful and attractive part of that highway will be that which lies along the north bank of the Ohio river from Portsmouth, to Cincinnati rivaling in beauty, as it will, the roads laid out throughout the most beautiful spot on that roadway will be a little bit of Scioto county dedicated by the state of Ohio as a perpetual home and resting place for all wild birds and animals as well as a resting place for the joy-riding tourists who come this way to enjoy the most beautiful bit of roadway east of the Mississippi. That may sound too good to be true. It is both good and true.

Vallee Harold Next Speaker

Vallee Harold was the next speaker of the evening to be introduced by Dr. Tremper and Mr. Harold in his remarks on "The Game Preserve As An Asset to Scioto County," said in part:

"Reclaiming of forest lands and propagation of game is a great principle and a great cause, one worthy of our efforts and enthusiasm. There is no other place so well suited for a game preserve or a refectory station as the tract of land inspected today. There is a beautiful river on the south, it fronts on a railroad and along a splendid highway which stretches from one end of the valley to the other. Millions of people in time will visit such a park, they will come to share its glories as a forest preserve and game refuge. They will be attracted to this section that is destined to be the workshop of the world by such a park. The fame and glory of Scioto county will be carried to all parts of Ohio, yes to all parts of the United States. Birds are not dying because of the treatment by hunters but because they have no place to propagate."

"Ohio people are known as the most hospitable in the country but the most hospitable in the state are to be found in Scioto county."

At this juncture of his address, Mr. Harold turned and addressed his remarks directly to Governor Davis and said: "In every man's heart is the desire for immortality, and there is something in each of us that makes us want to perpetuate our memory, either in memorial or in some worthy work done. Now, Mr. Governor, I do not know of any better way you could obtain a lasting memorial than by returning to these hills what God ordained them to be, a place where nature may rule supreme and where birds and other great things supposed to live may survive."

Dr. Tremper Introduces Governor

Dr. Tremper in introducing the Governor said that he came here in the interest of the people of Ohio and he hoped that he had heard and seen enough to cause him to recommend the western part of this county as the most desirable site for the proposed game preserve. As the Governor took the floor all arose and joined in singing.

"Hello, Harry, Hello Harry, you're a friend of mine." It was a greeting unexpected and one well received by the honored guest.

Governor Davis in part said: "I don't blame you for wanting to live here, the most beautiful part of Ohio I have ever been in. I wish to express thanks to the committee in charge today for the splendid treatment accorded us, I want to thank them for the inspiration given me for greater things. I made promises to the people of the state when elected that I would not only have trees planted but would preserve those trees already planted."

He called attention to the existence in the state of many thousands of acres of such waste land stretches, now wholly unused and unadapted for either agricultural or industrial purposes, and pointed out the intention of his administration of using such lands as may be available for the state to acquire, for the propagation of forest trees in combination with a creation of public shooting preserves, and wild animal sanctuaries.

"The husbanding of natural resources is a solemn duty for every public authority," said Governor Davis. "If less steps are taken to preserve what remains of our forests and encourage and facilitate the growing of new trees, the time will come when Ohio will be forestless."

Big Sum Ready For Development Program
"There is now available $90,000 to carry on Ohio's program of developing forest reserves through legislation adopted this year. The fish and game division has available, from hunting licenses, about another $80,000. We plan to combine these two objects, in so far as possible, and we intend to acquire for the state such waste land properties in various sections of the commonwealth as are best adapted to this double purpose."

"Last year, hunters' licenses brought into the state treasury $230,000. There are at least 300,000 hunters in the state, and we feel that these people should be given much consideration. By utilizing funds from hunters' licenses, reforestation can be carried on extensively, and much of the land so acquired utilized for the carrying on of game propagation and establishment of public shooting grounds."

"I hate to make promises and I must admit there are other parts of the state after such game preserves. If the state is able to make a deal at a fair price for the tract inspected today I will have to give you credit for a wonderful salesmanship ability."

The speaker explained that deer and wild turkey are to be put on the game refuges in the southern half of the state while marsh land that is to be reclaimed along the lake front will be used as a refuge for ducks. Continuing, he said, "Ohio must do something along these lines as Ohio has done less than other states in reclaiming hill and forest land and establishing game preserves. As long as I am governor I will lead my best efforts toward the securing of such things for Ohio. I want also to see a system of state parks. The state should have parks as well as municipalities. The proposed game here would be ideal for such a park situated as it is on a great highway along the beautiful Ohio river. I do not hesitate in saying that the first new game preserve and refectory station established will be in southern Ohio near Portsmouth."

Fellowship Made Him Forget Pains

During his remarks Governor Davis said that after he had been on his horse Wednesday afternoon during the inspection of the game preserve he did not think he would be able to stand to deliver a talk tonight but added that the splendid companionship and fellowship found on the trip caused him to forget his pains.

Director of Finance Floyd E. Waite was the next speaker. He explained that he spent a great deal of his time with men who want to extract money from the state and said the majority of this time was spent in turning down such men and their propositions. In regard to the game preserve he said "As Director of Finance I will do all I can to help you get the game preserve for this county." In closing he remarked "Many men make promises and they go away and forget them but I assure you that the horseback ride this afternoon will not be forgotten for the next few weeks, especially when I sit down."

Of His Own Work

The Governor then spent some time in telling of the things accomplished and work to be accomplished by the state's chief executive, and the various departments under his direction. He said his position is just like that of a manager of a big business and that the state is being run on a business plan. He told of how former governors could not work in harmony on account of friction in different departments because men of different political beliefs were on the job and how under the new organization system men in harmony with the governor's ideas are in charge and everything works more smoothly and satisfactorily. Under the new system the governor must shoulder the blame, the director of each department inform themselves of what other departments are doing and in this way all work in unison just as the directors of a big business. He spent some time on the good roads project, saying that 900 miles of good roads were built this year, this being more than in any other state this year and double that of previous years in Ohio. He also said that maintenance was a very important factor in road projects and this was being given serious consideration by the highway department. In closing he said, "I want you to feel that you are getting $1 worth of service for every $1 spent."

Game Warden Baxter Speaks

State Game Warden Baxter who has addressed local sportsmen before also had a few remarks. He said in part "I believe I speak for the entire sportsman population of Ohio when I say the words of Governor Davis here tonight when he remarked that Southern Ohio was to land a game preserve will bring joy to all Ohio hunters."

"Many farm lands are closed to hunters and something of this kind is needed in order that the state may play fair with the hunters who pay a license to hunt and have no place to hunt. "He then spoke of the game refuges in Pennsylvania and New York and told how they were run. "In a 20,000 acre tract an area of about 3000 acres in the center is closed to hunters while the other 17,000 acres forms a public hunting ground. This gives the game a safe refuge the overflow going into the public hunting grounds."

Continuing Mr. Baxter said, "We must look to the future generations and provide them with those things we do not have to see these conditions years ago. I don't believe there are any other such tracts as you have here in your county and it is simply of making the purchase at the right price. A recent Bill, passed gives us right to acquire such land by condemnation proceedings where necessary. I am for this territory down here for there is no other like it."

The music during the evening was furnished by Arthur Landman at the piano and Frank Adams directing the singing of well known songs in which all joined.

BATTLE OVER MILLIONS OF INDIAN CHIEF

MUSKOGEE, Okla.—Jackson Barnett is the richest Indian in the United States. That is why a fight, which has thrown the courts of two countries into a turmoil, is being staged. At present the chief lives, almost out in the open, in Okmulgee county. He has no use for white man's fads and fancies, but much prefers the great outdoors. His home is a four-room shack—and he's satisfied with it. All this in spite of the fact that millions upon millions of dollars literally rolled into him when great oil gushers were discovered on his land some years ago. No one seems to know just what he is worth; he owns a million dollars worth of Liberty bonds alone.

It is an Indian theory that a man's wealth should be disposed of before he dies—after his relatives are properly cared for. That's where the big fight comes in. Barnett with the approval of officials has already given $1,000,000 to Jacome University, a Northern Baptist school at Muskogee, and a quarter of a million for an institution for sick Indians.

Following these gifts, it was announced that Barnett and his family were to be removed from Okmulgee county to the town of Muskogee, in Muskogee county. He was to have a

$75,000 residence to take the place of his backwoods shack. And Okmulgee county let out a howl. County Judge Hugh Murphy, of Okmulgee, says he will not consent to the removal of Barnett's estate. While the fight hangs, as yet undecided, Barnett's guardian has petitioned the county courts in Okmulgee county for permission to use $150,000 in building Barnett a home in Okmulgee county and purchasing adjoining land to establish a pony ranch. Barnett's white wife, with whom he eloped some time ago, and his step-daughter, have tired of the open life. They are in favor of moving to Muskogee, in Muskogee county.

Theford's Black-Draught Highly Recommended by a Tennessee Grocer for Troubles Resulting from Torpid Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.—The efficiency of Theford's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, liver medicine, is vouched for by Mr. W. N. Parsons, a grocer of this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and I don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver. "I have known and used it for years, and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it." Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr. Parsons describes—valuable in regulating the liver to its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities. Theford's Black-Draught liver medicine is the original and only genuine. Accept no imitations or substitutes. Always ask for Theford's.

ALABAMA, EXCELSIOR, AND Etc.

THE absorbing question: Where shall the country club be located? has been definitely settled.
Perhaps, some site other than the one chosen may have been equally admirable, for about Portsmouth are many picturesque viewpoints, but it is at the same time certain that nothing superior is to be had.
It is related that when a famous Indian chief was prospecting through the continent he came to a point on a certain river and when its wondrous scenery spread out before him, he exclaimed: "Alabama"—Here I rest; and also when another adventurer was wandering in strange land he came upon a wondrous country and then he shouted out: "Eureka"—I have found it.
To Tremper Hill, where historic tribes buried their dead, countless ages ago, the tired business man will go and as the lovely panorama of circling and towering hills and green valleys, with the city below stretching out before him, he too will say here I rest, while the welcomed stranger will say I have found it, the most wonderfully located golf course in all Ohio, indeed, of any I have seen.
Those who had the location in hand by no means had a pleasant task, but their selection being so excellent and received with so much approbation they can well afford to forget any vexations and take satisfaction in what has been so well done.

A DEMAND OF NEIGHBORLINESS

LAST summer, when Lawrence county had completed improvement of her portion of Gallia pike this way she became exceedingly insistent Scioto county should improve her portion of it and even sent some of her most distinguished citizens down here to present the matter to our county commissioners. That was all fair enough and the Scioto county commissioners were not slow in making such repairs as were advisable, considering the fact that the stretch is to be paved next year.
But does Lawrence appreciate this bit of neighborly consideration? We would not answer negatively, but there is a stretch of road, about two miles, in Lawrence county, that connects with Scioto and Jackson highways. This stretch has long been in a deplorable condition, with a day or two like the present with a slow rain falling, it will be next to impassable. The attention of the commissioners of Lawrence county has been long and frequently called to it. When may action be expected from them?

IT WANTS TO HAVE PEACE

A great railroad strike is imminent, but, strange to say, the country views it without panic, almost with equanimity.
This may be because of an incomprehensible feeling that some way will be found of averting it, but more probably because there is a belief that a condition that has disturbed affairs of all sorts so long and acutely is best settled definitely one way or the other.
As a matter of fact the public is deeply befuddled over the railway situation as well as of many other things because conditions generally are so chaotic and abnormal. Paying freight rates that seem to be a deadly clog upon business and enterprise, it is yet told the roads can not operate within costs and yet knowing wages have not been increased at all out of proportion to transportation charges the problem goes entirely beyond its comprehension. So for the present it sits in a sort of impassive state, with a sort of conviction that out of the turmoil likely to be precipitated a solution will come that will make for betterment generally.
Yet, at that, all must recognize that in the up of the transportation activities of the country and the consequent direct and indirect idleness of millions, there would be precipitated a stress and trial that would entail most unhappy and deplorable conditions.
The country wants quiet and peace; it is amazed and dazed at the confusion and disorder that have descended upon it and neither knows what to think nor which way to turn.

WILL FIND HE HAS A REAL JOB

PROHIBITION Commissioner Haynes is coming down into Kentucky to make a personal survey of the liquor situation in the state.
The official was reared about two counties back in Ohio and it must be he is more or less familiar with the practices, habits and peculiarities of the average mountaineer from the Dark and Bloody Grounds.
Up where the hills and the clouds meet they are the kindest and most hospitable people in the world, when you come among them, minding your own business and letting their alone, but give them a hint you are "snooping" round to find out what may lie over in the hollow and you may just as well look upon yourself as a corpse.
It is to be apprehended, therefore, that Commissioner Haynes will make his survey at discreet range and that is all that is any-wise necessary. For he'll find easily enough more whiskey is being made in Kentucky right now than before the country became theoretically and officially dry.

New-York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MANTYER

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—The "Hop-heads Hop" in Cherry Street on the East Side is the magnet for Tenderloin shimmers with bizarre tastes in nocturnal frivolity. The dance is supposed to be a weekly gathering of slaves of the needle, poppy and "snow." Jingle Bells, who got his name because of long devotion to "snow" or cocaine, presides at the piano.
The yep wagon barkers are politely whispering the news of this new rendezvous to tourists and like all resorts of its ilk it is staged for the types of wide-eyed visitors who go to Chinatown and are thrilled by men sprawled in banks, with faces painted ashen gray, dreamily puffing Bulldog through Woolworth opium pipes.
The "Hop-heads Hop" begins when the saxophone has mounded its dying notes in the midnight supper clubs. The entrance is through an innocent-looking soft drink place. One has to be known as "right" and have $3 before going through a series of runways and down cellar into a stuffy, ill-lighted stone walled room.
All the old hokum is on display—tables of beer kegs, waiters in pirate dress, an appropriate uniform indeed, a piano that is half strung, beetle-browed "tough extras" and girls whose faces betray their calling. The trembling visitors occupy curtained boxes at the sides.
A leather-junged barker announces the festivities, brazenly proclaiming the "Heroin Hula" and a group of young girls and men cavort and rave about in a weird fantasy of feigned frenzy. They are supposed to be confirmed heroin addicts. They appear more than anything else to be full of hot soup.
Between various stunts on the program the visitors dance to the jangling times of Jingle Bells, who sings as he plays and is apparently the only honest-to-goodness hop-head in the aggregation.
At daylight a hot dog and coffee vender brings those who are still awake—for most of them go to sleep from sheer ennui—what they want to eat. And the next day the guests tell their shivering friends of the awful horrors. I did myself, getting better as I went along.
On Forty-Second street is a musical instrument department store that sells everything from a tin whistle to a pipe organ. In the breast of almost every man surges a secret ambition to play an accordion. It is a kind of ambition that brings the blush to the cheek if discovered and yet the floor-walker tells me that many prominent men secretly master the art.
Bovary drug store windows are filled these days with patent medicines based on the gland theory of rejuvenation. In one window a sign reads: "No matter how long you have been down and out, our remedy will give you new hope, inspire you to regain your self-respect and perhaps restore you to the loved ones you have forgot."
Fifth Avenue has restored the starched striped collar for Fall wear. The stripes now run around the collar instead of up and down. There are some dazzling designs to be seen around parade time in the afternoon. Checkered spats, too, have come into a certain vogue among those who strive to be sartorially perfect.
A young theatrical booking agent was testifying in a separation suit brought by his wife, a chorus girl, who was known as a fast spender. "Were you in a position to provide the ordinary comforts?" asked the judge.
"Why, your honor," snorted the husband, "I wasn't even able to keep her in hair nets."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

The Misgovernment of American Cities

New York is in the midst of a campaign for municipal officers from mayor down, which grows more and more strenuous. The political government of great cities is the severest test of the republican form of government. City life is not conducive to active interest in municipal affairs. This fact is notorious the country over, and accounts for the autocracies, despotisms and oligarchies which gain control of cities by the use of democratic rights and privileges.

These forms of oppression used to be called "rings," which are combinations of officials formed to perpetuate their members in office, to control political appointments and policies, and (most of all) to fatten on the opportunities to divert public funds into their private pockets by elaborate frauds consummated by apparently legal methods, through collusion and a great variety of subterfuges by which public works, patronage of all sorts and valuable privileges are steered into the control of the favored group.

Usually these perversions of republican government to abominable uses are directed by one master mind, formerly called a "boss," who heads the plundering organization and never holds office himself. Murphy in New York and the late George B. Cox in Cincinnati, have been prominent examples of this political autocracy. For a quarter of a century Cox absolutely ruled Cincinnati. No dispute ever exercised greater control over a people than he. Other men in other cities will occur to our readers as having exercised similar extraordinary power. Frequently these despots have been benevolent in a way, but always their purpose is the accumulation of riches from public funds rather than the economical and honest government of the cities.

Thus it has been in New York, and in the present campaign there is a struggle between the Tammany organization headed by Murphy, and a fusion of citizens of all political parties in protest against the all too common rule of an oligarchy or an autocrat.

In many smaller cities and a few large ones, notably Dayton, Ohio, a different system, authorized by state laws, has been used to put a stop to the abuses of power mentioned above. It is called the commission form of government, under which three men, elected by the people, usually compose the commission and select a city manager who conducts all the business of the municipality. This ensures responsibility, and in Dayton at least has brought about economies and reforms which are notable. The misgovernment of commission government is the adoption of business principles in city affairs, the elimination of waste and graft, and the promotion of the general welfare and law observance.

The stake the people have in the government of such cities as New York, Chicago and Philadelphia is enormous. The wonder is that their populations always, or nearly always, lose out in the elections. The reason they lose is the apathy of business men when the periodical contests come on, and the strange willingness of city property owners to have their pockets picked by political crooks.

Making Better Swiss Cheese

As a lunch cheese none rivals the oily, rich and deliciously flavored Swiss. Before the war the imported article sold around 40 cents a pound, while the domestic brands retailed at or near 25 cents. The domestic product is often quite as satisfactory to the average palate as the imported, but to the connoisseur there is a world of difference—and to the student as well, which finds the domestic cheese easier to handle.

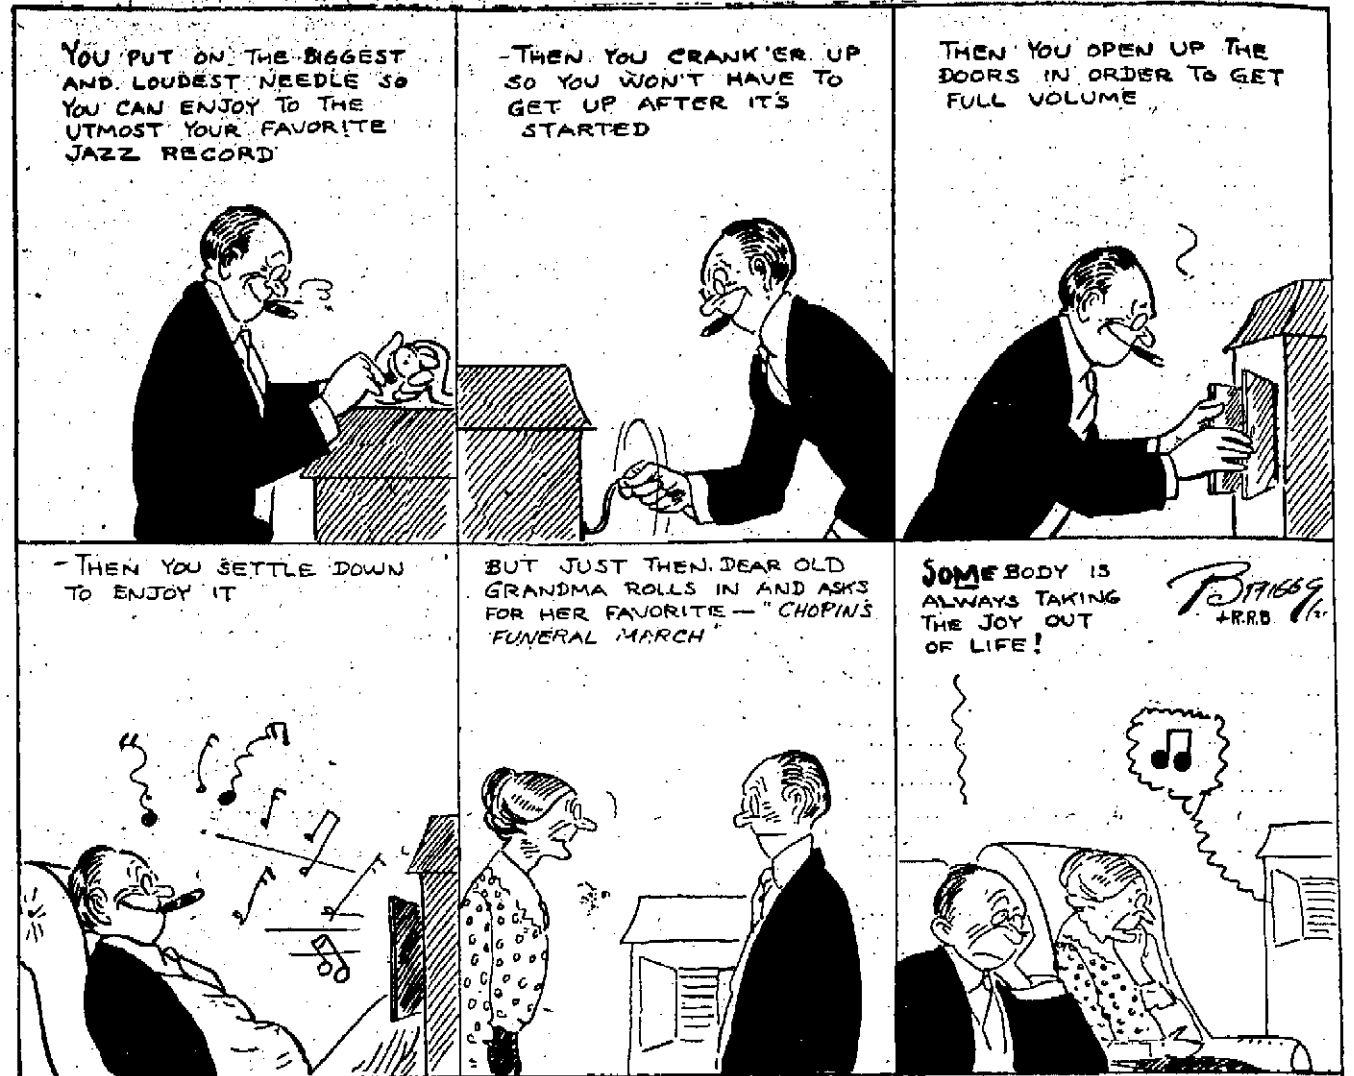

The dairy division of the agricultural department, with an experimental factory at Grore City, Pa., has been trying out a method of making Swiss with purified and controlled bacterial cultures, scientifically developed. They have been tried also in commercial factories. It is said, with fine results, which is a matter for congratulation. We should be able to make as good cheese as is produced in Switzerland or Germany.

Two Ohio factories which made Swiss by the new method in June have had no trouble in marketing it at from 30 to 35 cents a pound on its merits, while other factories in the same territory using the old method, got from 20 to 22 cents a pound. We have often wondered what effect the absence of good brands of beer was having on the demand for Swiss cheese, which has a gustatory affinity for alcoholic brews, and was a prime favorite in so-called Dutch houses.

An oyster, says a French scientist who has studied the mollusk from its biological, alimentary, medical and economical angles, may give birth to a million embryos, which in time develop a shell and grow fat and delicious. If only one might have his oyster bed in his back yard, what a don't he could make in the high cost of living during the months which have an "r" in their names!

SOMEBODY IS ALWAYS TAKING THE JOY OUT OF LIFE—BY BRIGGS

My Own Laddie
Some people think it's very hard to rear a little lad, And speak about the sacrifices that I'm sure I've never had. They dwell in stately manner on what life might have been, If I had pledged my fortunes to the mighty world of men; But I think within their ignorance they have never known the joy Of being just the daddy of a little barefoot boy.

Of course he isn't perfect, nor would we have him so; What if his hands are dirty, ours, too, were once, you know, And it's only human nature that a lad should sometimes forget To change his shoes and stockings when he knows his feet are wet, And if he sometimes doesn't wash the dirt behind his ears, 'Tis just a repetition of his father's boyhood years. I may scold him when he fires me, but no matter how I blame, Though his eyes may show I've hurt him, yet his heart is just the same.

With his warm, small hand in mine, I can never go astray, For his trusting eyes show plainly that he's traveling in my way. No matter what the world may hold, the things I might have known, I'd rather be the daddy of that lad I call my own.

Just Made Over

After Mr. Brown had raked his yard he took the accumulated rubbish into the street to burn. A number of neighbors' children came flocking about the bon fire, among them a little girl, whom Mr. Brown did not remember having seen before. Wishing with his usual kindness, to make the stranger feel at ease, he beamed upon her and said heartily:
"Hello! Isn't that a new face?"
A deep red suffused her freckles. "No," she stammered, "it ain't new. It's just been washed."—Harper's Magazine.
